BLIZZARD IN EAST
SENDS DEATH TOLL
UP; RELIEF COMING

New England digging out of heavy snowfall; Schools Closed

COLD EXTENDING FAR INTO SOUTH

Hundreds Cling to Roofs As Floods in South Take Lives

The storm-ridden nation counted close to 100 weather deaths today, but saw relief ahead.

While the northern states and part of the south remained in the grip of the season's worst weather, some moderation was forecast for tomorrow for the snow-laden east and the southeast.

Temperatures were already reported to have risen somewhat over the Western Canadian provinces and the extreme northern plains, and there was a promise of relief today in the mid-west, where cold records of 50 years standing were broken.

Meanwhile, at least 14 deaths in the flood waters of the South, where rivers were on a wild rampage, helped to swell the total of weather fatalities.

Hundreds Cling To Roofs

Ten of the dead perished in Northern Mississippi. Four additional deaths were reported from Tennessee. Relief workers worked at top speed to bring aid to the homeless. Cold and hunger added to the problems of the victims.

From 400 to 1,000 persons were believed clinging to roofs and tree tops in the flood area around Slide, Miss. Overflooded creeks and flooded rivers also played havoc in West Virginia. Two persons were killed. The state was blanketed by a heavy fall of snow.

Blizzard Grips East

Streets, highways and homes in the lowland areas of the state of Washington remained under water as a result of thaws.

The East and New England were digging out of one of the heaviest snowfalls in many years.

More than 16 inches of snow had fallen in New York City by midnight last night, which reached gale velocity added to the suffering, and municipal lodging houses in the Metropolis were ordered kept open all night to care for the unfortunate.

A blizzard ripped through Boston. Traffic by air and sea was paralyzed. Philadelphia had its worst snowstorm in two decades. Ten weather deaths were counted in Pennsylvania. Schools were closed in New Haven, Conn.

While the storm was at its height, a passenger train was derailed at near Woodbridge, N. J., but the 70 passengers escaped serious injuries. Three members of the crew, however, were injured.

Chilly in South

The snow was from eight to fifteen inches deep in Maryland, blocking traffic and extended far down into the sunny south. It was

IMPOSSIBLE TO ITEMIZE FUNDS,
SAYS PRESIDENT

Plan Defended As Aiming At Security Pay Instead of Dole

ROOSEVELT AIDS SURE OF VICTORY

Insurgents to Fight For Further Curtailment Of His Powers

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—A congress embroiled over the issue of appropriating huge lump sums of cash for presidential allocation was told today by Mr. Roosevelt it was "clearly impossible at the moment" to itemize the $4,000,000 work relief program.

This newest White House opposition to a determined movement in both parties to say in detail how the fund should be spent was given in a special message transmitting to the Capitol the report of the National Resources board and the Mississippi Valley committee of the Public Works administration.

Of both reports, which have been made public previously, the President said:

Segregation Impossible
"These documents constitute a remarkable foundation for what we hope will be a permanent policy of orderly development in every part of the United States."

Then referring more directly to the move for legislative allocation of the mammoth public-project fund, the President said:

"As I have already stated, it is only because of the current emergency of unemployment and because of the physical impossibility of surveying, weighing and testing each and every project that a segregation of items is clearly impossible at this time."

"For the same reason the constitution of executive departments and administrative machinery would retard the immediate employment objective."

WARDEN GRILLED
IN PRISON PROBE

Thomas Admits Listening Device Was Used In Penitentiary

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 24.—Frazier Reams, investigating conditions at Ohio penitentiary, today accused Warden Preston E. Thomas of "trying to lead this inquiry off the trail."

Thomas, bristling noticeably, shot back a curt: "I'm not!"

Thomas earlier had disclosed that his "listening" device at the prison had proved valuable in disclosing plots.

The warden denied there were any "privileged characters" in the penitentiary and then declared hotly: "You know what that device is for."

"I can listen in and hear what is going on. I often find out about bribery cases and about crimes that are about to be committed."

The warden testified he once told Michael DeAngelo of Columbus, a former federal penitentiary inmate, that he "didn't like this business of so many visits" by DeAngelo to Thomas Licaoli, former Toledo gang chief.

Former Kaiser To Observe Birthday Quietly This Year

(By Associated Press)
POTSDAM, Germany, Jan. 24.—For the first time in the 16 post-war years, the former Kaiser's birthday will not be celebrated Jan. 26, at Friedenskirche.

Rev. Dietrich Johann Rump, Nazi German Christian, is pastor of the church and refused to permit the former imperial court preacher, Rev. Friedrich Richter-Reichelm, to conduct the services which were to have been under the auspices of the United Patriotic societies.

Richter-Reichelm is a member of the oppositional confessional synod.

4 Ohio Democrats Oppose Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Four Ohio Democratic representatives broke from the house leadership and voted against the rigid rule of the administration's $4,880,000,000 relief measure.

They are Representatives Robert Crosser, Martin L. Sweeney and Stephen M. Young of Cleveland and Charles V. Truax, Bucyrus.

Stoffer Continues Police Probe; Others Mark Time

City officials more or less marked time today on the intended investigation of the Salem police department.

Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer, who has asked Safety Director Homer Silver to remove Patrolman Homer Veon from the force, was in Lisbon again today conferring with Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lafferty relative to starting a grand jury investigation into the functioning of his department.

Chief Stoffer, when interviewed at Lisbon today, stated he was disappointed over the lack of cooperation among city officials in the probe.

The questioning yesterday by Prosecutor Lafferty and Stoffer of Kenneth Umstead, arrested for parole violation from the Mansfield reformatory in connection with the solving of two Salem burglaries, the loot of which was found in Patrolman Veon's garage, provided a "new slant on things" it was learned today from the chief.

"Umstead has given us some new information," Stoffer was quoted as saying.

The chief had planned to go to Lisbon today in company with Safety Director Silver, but Silver did not make the trip. Parole Officer Griffith of Canton, who came here today for information on Umstead, accompanied Stoffer to Lisbon.

Victor Lake, who has confessed to robbing the Golden Eagle clothing store and the Salem Lunch, is held in the Lisbon county jail.

Giffin was going north on Union and did not see the boy until he was close to him. Jamming on his brakes, he ran the car into the curb.

Giffin took the boy to the Salem City hospital where it was found that he had sustained a fractured left ankle and abrasions on the left cheek. The boy was taken to the home of his parents, after receiving first aid treatment.

FARM INSTITUTE WELL ATTENDED; NAME OFFICERS

Cold Proves No Barrier To Patrons; Officers Are Re-elected

POSTER CONTEST WINNERS CHOSEN

Fairmount Band to Offer Program Tonight; Day Sessions Close

The sudden cold snap proved no barrier for the patrons of the Salem Farmers institute.

Last night the farmers with their families and friends, taxed the capacity of the Memorial building auditorium and at this morning's session over 400 were in attendance. More were expected at the afternoon and night meetings.

Officers were re-elected this morning. They are: J. B. Shelton of Mt. Nebo grange, president; C. D. Carr of Goshen grange, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Pow, Goshen grange, secretary and treasurer.

Awards in the poster contest, originally scheduled to take place today, were made last night. Blaine Hart of Fairview school, received first prize in the seventh and eighth grade division; Daniel Schmidt, Center school, second; Hilda Stefani, Center school, third.

In the fifth and sixth grade group, Jack Breckenridge, Center school, won first prize; Mildred Hirschfeld, Center school, second, and Raymond Zeppernick, Center school, third.

The farmers again heard talks from the state speakers, Mrs. Neal Wyatt Kyle, of Somerset, and William H. Beacher of Gratis, at this morning's session.

Mrs. Kyle, speaking on "The Four Square Child," pointed out the value of proper child care and training with moral guidance and other pointers, based on a good educational foundation.

Mr. Beacher addressed the group on "Who Does Most to Deprive the Faithful Horse of His Oats," a talk dealing with the marketing of farm products. He drew a parallel between the prices of the farmer for his produce and those set down by the city markets. Goshen grange No. 1103 was in charge of the meeting this morning.

Night Programs

Willow Grove grange No. 1688 had charge this afternoon. Both state speakers were to again address the groups. President Shelton had charge of a business session.

The Fairmount Home Children's band of Alliance will present the entire program tonight, starting at 7:30, featuring vocal and instrumental music and readings. The meeting will be in charge of the Salem Business bureau which is cooperating with the five granges in arranging and presenting the institute programs.

There will be no morning sessions on Friday and Saturday, the concluding days of the gathering. Only evening programs will be observed. An Old Fiddlers' contest will be the highlight of the Friday night program while a quartet contest will be held on Saturday night.

FEMININE SKIRTS GETTING BRIEFER

Preview of Spring and Summer Styles at Show Reveal Change in Length

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Feminine skirts are getting shorter.

At a preview of spring and summer styles at the Merchandise Mart market, in which nearly 300 exhibitors are participating, the skirts of cotton frocks, especially, were observed to be an inch or two shorter than those of the models they came to mid-calf.

Seersucker was one of the pre-dominant fabrics in washable togs. But there are several new types of that familiar standby, and one of these, and very clever, is a sheer seersucker. It has the typical seersucker crinkle, but in some instances is almost as sheer as voile.

The sheer was styled into summery dance frocks. From it were fashioned cool-looking daytime frocks that are more dressy than those of the well-known heavier weave, which is still holding its own in the sports realm.

Traces Kidnap Ladder

Arthur Koehler, U. FIRST PURCHASE OF NEW STAMPS

More than $500 Worth of Stamps Sold First Day; Sales in 1,000 Lots Urged

Over $500 worth of new sales tax stamps were sold in Salem yesterday by the Farmers National and the First National banks, a check-up disclosed today. The two institutions are acting as agents for the stamps at the request of the state.

The first purchase of the new stamps at the Farmers National was made by Chapins Millinery. The first purchase at the First National bank was made by the Salem Hardware Co.

Both banks have suggested that customers make their purchases in 1,000 lots, except of course in the larger denominations, to save the banks the tedious task of breaking down the 1,000 stamp packages into smaller bundles.

Stamps purchased at the First National bank include: 5,000 ones, 1,500 twos, 750 threes, 200 sixes, 90 nine cent stamps, 45 twelves, 20 fifteens, 30 thirties and 10 sixty cent certificates.

The Farmers' National bank reported a larger sale which included: 1,500 twos, 1,000 threes, 500 sixes, 100 nines, 50 15 cent stamps, 135 thirties, 25 of the $1.50 denomination and 10 $3 stamps.

Red Cross Seeking Secondhand Clothes

Next week Red Cross volunteer service will collect second hand clothing.

Owing to the winter weather the entire town will not be canvassed. Red Cross asks that you telephone (Phone 219) or send a postal stating the date you will have clothing ready for collection.

Clothes are very much needed in families where the income of the bread earner is inadequate to fill the needs of the family.

"Do not let discarded clothing hang in a closet, which may be a Godsend to some unfortunate person," urged Red Cross workers today. "It will be an act of economy to give them to some one less fortunate. Let the Red Cross be the medium."

KOEHLER IS LAST STATE WITNESS

Cross-Examination Briefer Than Expected; Sticks to Story

(BULLETIN)
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24.—Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann moved for a directed verdict of acquittal as soon as court convened this afternoon.

Justice Trenchard denied the motion.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24.—The state rested its murder case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann shortly after noon today.

It was indicated that in his own behalf in midafternoon, though a possibility existed the defense would ask for adjournment until tomorrow after making its opening statement.

The state was content to end its evidence with the testimony of Arthur Koehler, government wood expert, who testified that one rail of the Lindbergh kidnap ladder came from Hauptmann's attic.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24.—Sheriff John H. Curtiss of Hunterdon county, the man who holds the precious tickets of admittance to the Hauptmann trial, is of the opinion the "trial should have been held in Madison Square Garden."

"I've got 5,000 applications for seats from all over the country and from twelve foreign countries," he said.

"We're doing everything we can to get everybody we can inside, but the courtroom isn't big enough for them all."

and changed his story in no way on cross-examination.

Also standing without alteration by cross-examination was the wood expert's testimony that Hauptmann's own plan was used in the fashioning of the ladder and that other lumber in the ladder came from a Bronx lumber yard where Hauptmann had purchased wood.

Wants to Question Sisk

"The state rests, your honor," he announced.

Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense staff, immediately pleaded to be allowed to cross-examine one of the state's witnesses further.

"The state has rested," Wilentz proclaimed, "you may call who you please."

Reilly wanted to question Thomas H. Sisk, a Department of Justice agent who testified for the state, and Hildegard Olga Alexander, Bronx dress model, who said she saw Hauptmann shadowing Dr.

STATE GOVERNMENT

State government's problems seem drab and unexciting in comparison with the momentous measures being discussed in the national capital. Yet, no one is better able to realize the importance of state government than officials of the federal government.

In the structure of government, counties and cities are the foundation, the state is the wall and national government is the roof. President Roosevelt's social security program illustrates this. It is predicated entirely on state action.

Gov. Davey's first message to the Ohio legislature, though it makes mention of many interesting points, may not seem to concern Ohio so closely as President Roosevelt's last message, for instance. Most of this seeming unimportance, of course, is illusory.

It is of direct interest to Ohio citizens to know their new governor favors a plan whereby taxes could be paid in monthly installments. He recommends, also, reenactment of an easy payment plan for delinquent taxes, saying "no just government would penalize its helpless citizens."

Automobile owners will be interested in Gov. Davey's recommendation for a rearrangement of automobile license fees. His proposal includes a uniform fee, plus property tax based on true value. License fees would be payable in four installments, each covering three months.

Many thousands of Ohioans should be as interested in their governor's program of conservation as in President Roosevelt's dream of raising the standard of living in the Tennessee valley. Gov. Davey thinks of conservation as affecting water supply, forests and rainfall as well as sportsmen. An incidental part of his program is roadside beautification.

Gov. Davey's recommendation for revising the old-age pension setup in this state in certain particulars is a reminder that Ohio already is in a field which is to be cultivated intensively under President Roosevelt's national program of social security. Here is a perfect example of the real relationship between state and national government. Ohio helped to lead the way to old-age pensions. The union can be only as strong as its component parts, the states.

There are many other important ideas in Gov. Davey's first message to the legislature. He proposes reorganization of government to give greater discretionary authority to the executive. He repeats his plan for establishing a state agency to deal with crime. He recommends decentralization of the workmen's compensation division and the public utilities commission, to facilitate their services. He asks co-operation in investigating the management of closed banks and the state penitentiary. He keeps a campaign pledge by asking for legislation to force state institutions to buy Ohio-mined coal. He pledges that his administration will try to hold appropriations within their present limits. He asks for non-partisan action on measures which obviously are in the public interest.

These are the problems of the man elected to be governor of this state. It is tempting to believe that if Ohio were to concentrate on them and the other important problems which Mr. Davey will describe in subsequent messages the actions of the national government might soon seem as remote as most of them really are to residents of Salem and other Ohio cities.

HELP WANTED

If this were the turn of the century and a real king admitted he wanted to marry an American girl, the thing would be as good as done. Marrying royalty isn't what it used to be when the United States was threatened with emigration of its marriageable daughters.

King Zog of Albania, 39, partially bald and straightforward, wants to marry an American girl with an income of $1,000,000 a year, a good mind and an attractive face and figure. More to the point, he has wanted to do this for some time.

Make it $10,000 a year, King Zog, and look out for a rush of competition from a few thousand young Americans that will leave you breathless. If there were any of the $1,000,000 variety at large, they wouldn't be let loose to go to Albania. Better yet, marry a wife and support her yourself.

THE STARS SAY

For Friday, January 25

According to the ruling planetary forces for the day there should be great activity with interesting developments both in business and private affiliations. Employment may be the major interest, with the promise of favors, honors, preferment or increase in sight. But in all matters there is need for precaution, tact and diplomacy. There may be surprising news about an elderly person.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of advancement in employment, with favors, preferment or honors at the hand of superiors or those in authority. In domestic, social and romantic affairs there may be interesting developments, but which also call for tactful, clever and gracious manipulation. Good news suddenly or surprisingly comes regarding an elderly person.

A child born on this day should be gracious, affable, socially inclined and should find favor with many friends as well as in employment and business. Notable nativity: Nysa McMein, artist.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

PALM BEACH, Jan. 24.—We dined with the Arthur Somers Roche last evening in their patio. Against a backdrop of banyans and mottled moonlight. I first met Roche the year he was being acclaimed as the American Oppenheim for his exciting novel, "Lost." No writer has shared my confidences so many years.

He has moments of megrims but more often he is in an up-bow of exuberance, riding hell-for-leather his whim of the moment. Today it may be golf, tomorrow some outrageously tawdry night club and the next day he is bursting with banquets for an obscure author showing promise in the pulps.

Legends about him would fill a book. He slept on park benches, was a waiter in Suicide Hall, dashed off sonnets for Bob Davis in ante-rooms to rush back to Doc Perry's to buy another round. The fact is, Roche was making $40,000 a year selling fiction when our paths crossed 20 years ago.

The son of James Jeffrey Roche, distinguished Irish scholar, wit and poet, he was graduated from Holyoke, read law and knocked about Park Row until he turned to fiction. He built a fine home from royalties here because Palm Beach as a locale exuded the glamour he likes to imprison in his novels.

To banter with the Roches on the phone is as much cock-eyed fun as anyone can have. Inseparable, if you call one both are likely to answer on connecting phones. I asked for Ethel and some inanity I voiced caused Roche to cut in with the stinging sarcasm of which he is master. All one can do is splutter a few tepid "Is that so?" It's difficult to realize he has been cried out of more earnings than any writing sucker of his time. But he has.

From the rotogravures, it might be imagined Palm Beach is starchy with formality. Yet it's most informal of the American spas. Full evening dress is seen only among ballroom dancers of the grills. And some of the doddierest frumps and countriest jays wander palm-tree paths. Wealth does not have to bend to sartorial whims. It sniffs at fashion and dresses as it pleases. Dinner jackets with soft shirts and collars are customary. Milton Holden is regarded as neatest in such informality.

Abandonment of Coconut Grove is a wrench for regulars. It fitted its name plus a jazz band in white duck. The Grove was an accessory of the famous Royal Poinciana, a rambling and barny old inn that died of mellow antiquity in a world gone suddenly modern. It offered all its dancing and camaraderie for a dollar. The finest coconut cake in the world were baked there and the urbane Jack Hobbs, who knew everybody was at the entrance to greet you. You saw theatrical Broadway and Southampton swells.

Palm Beach's reigning dowager is Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia. Her nod is law in the upper stratum. Col. Stotesbury was a drummer in the Civil War and likely the greatest dandy for his years in all the land. The Stotesbury party list is the social skimmed cream. Young Jimmy Cromwell is Mrs. Stotesbury's son by a former marriage. He recently went lit'ry and turned out a not-so-good book but is reputed to have the inside track in the gallop for the hand of the lovely blonde heiress Doris Duke. So he should worry about literature. The Stotesbury home here was designed by Addison Mizner and launched the incredible Mizners on their career of catering astonishing architecture and promoting fantastic villages in Florida.

Architecture, by the way, in Palm Beach is overnight metamorphosis. Red roofed Spanish castles with flaming awnings and a patio have become passe with hiccup suddenness. And a head ache for hundreds of home owners. The new decoi is English colonial with a sprinkling of French directoire. It writes finish for torture benches, cast iron what-nots and return of livable furnishings. Jules Bache's manse is among those undergoing change. Many others are at the blue print stage. Nobody seemed to have remembered until now that white colonial pillars lent such enchantment to the vagaries of moonlight.

Facts About Pancreas Gland

Few persons are familiar with that organ of the body known as the "pancreas." Yet this glandular structure plays an important part in the normal functioning of the human body.

It is intimately related to the process of digestion. The pancreas is located in the abdominal cavity, just below the stomach. It is a narrow and elongated gland, extending from one side of the body to the other. Its right end, the head, is directed downward. The left extremity, the tail, lies across another organ called the spleen.

The pancreas is a vital organ. We just cannot live without it. Like any other structure within the body, it is subject to irritation, inflammation, ulceration or infection. At times stones may form in the ducts or tubes of the gland. Tumors may be formed in the pancreas.

Necessary to Digestion. Since this organ is a glandular structure it produces a secretion. The substances or juices it produces are called "enzymes." They help to digest food. The "lipase" enzyme digests protein. There is a third enzyme called "amylase" which digests starch.

But the most important secretion of this interesting structure is a material called "insulin." For many years little was known about this substance, but it has been found that when there is a deficiency of this secretion, the body is unable properly to utilize starches and sugars.

This produces a condition known as diabetes. Contrary to a common belief, diabetes is not a disease of the kidneys, but is really due, as I have said, to a disturbance in the secretions of the pancreas.

Mild cases of diabetes can often be corrected by restricting the diet. But in many cases diet alone is not sufficient to overcome the disturbance. That is why the discovery of insulin was of very great benefit to mankind.

Though it does not cure diabetes, it enables the patient to continue with his work and daily routine. He is free of the many serious and sometimes fatal complications of this disease.

It is probable that at some future date a definite cure for diabetes will be discovered. The secret may be hidden in the mechanism of the pancreas because there are many problems in connection with this gland which still remain unsolved.

A Review of the Day's News

—By Arthur Brisbane—

DODGE CITY, Kan., Jan. 24. COLD WEATHER here and there, along this railroad track. Nearly ten degrees below zero at Gallup, New Mexico.

FINANCIAL CONSERVATISM is agitated because old-age pensions as planned, moderately, by the President, would cost one billion dollars a year. Conservation might better worry about Dr. Townsend's plan to give $200 a month to everybody past sixty years of age, and costing at least twenty-four thousand millions a year.

Conservation might also worry about billions spent uselessly in state, national or local government costs, and taxes that run above thirteen thousand million dollars a year.

MANY, taking the Townsend plan seriously, resent any suggestion that it might be difficult to find the twenty-four thousand millions a year necessary to carry out the plan. A lady who signs M. C. D. writes from Los Angeles, expressing admirable unselfishness and says: "I have a good home, plenty to eat and wear, and am not eligible for the pension, being 41 years old. But we are thirty million strong and organized in every state in the Union, so just 'lay off' criticizing the plan or we will see what we can do about it."

AT WILMINGTON, Delaware, three young men, 18, 20 and 23 years old, were lashed in public, a crowd of one hundred looking on. After the lashing, on the bare back, the youths began ten-year prison sentences for burglary. The lash frightens criminals more than imprisonment, as was proved in London, where an epidemic of "garrotting" ended as soon as the lash was used. But what will be the mental state of those young men when they leave prison after long association with experienced criminals, and constant brooding on the humiliation and pain of the lashing?

Can it be hoped that they will be reformed, or be anything except confirmed criminals, and enemies of society?

LET CHILDREN MAKE THEIR OWN CANDY

WHEN THE youngsters want to have chums in for an informal afternoon and evening party, there is nothing that is more fun than candy making. And if you think that boys don't like to take part in making taffies, then just try them with the recipes that we are giving today. The recipes are simple enough for the boys and girls to follow without any adult supervision.

It is a good idea to prepare for one or two pulled taffies, and while some of the children stir the taffy that is boiling, there is time to make a short-cut fudge. Apples, nuts, milk, fruit punch or hot chocolate, with some of the candy, make suitable refreshments for this sort of a party.

Honey Taffy

To make delicious honey taffy we use sweetened condensed milk, an ingredient that is a feature of all the recipes given here today. Cook the contents of one can (one and one-third cups) sweetened condensed milk, half cup honey and a few grains of salt together in a heavy pan. Stir over low heat until hard ball forms when tested in water. Cool in buttered pan. Pull until firm. Stretch into long rope and cut in pieces.

Peanut Butter Taffy

Then there's a peanut butter taffy, for which one needs contents of one can sweetened condensed milk (one and one-third cups), cook the milk together with two tablespoons peanut butter and half cup corn syrup, all in a heavy pan. Stir over low heat until hard ball is formed when tested in cold water.

Cool on buttered pan. Pull till firm and stretch into long rope and cut in pieces.

One of the nicest confections is one that we have termed short-cut fudge, for want of a better name. So make it and give it a nicer name, for it deserves it.

Fudge Recipe

Melt three squares of unsweetened chocolate in a double boiler. Add one and one-third cups (one can) of sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water five minutes until mixture thickens. Remove from fire. Add one and a half tablespoons butter and one tablespoon vanilla. Sift two cups (nine ounces) confectioner's sugar (this will measure approximately two and one-third cups after sifting). Work into chocolate mixture.

STEEL INDUSTRY HITS NEW HIGH

Rise in Activity Reflects Auto Production Near Levels of 1930

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Steel production, as estimated by the Iron Age, crossed the 50 per cent mark this week, and is now at the highest level since early last June. The publication fixed the national average at 51.5 per cent of capacity against 49 per cent last week. Last year the present rate was not attained until April.

The rise in activity, declared the summary, reflects automobile production rapidly approaching 1930 levels and multiplying demands from miscellaneous consuming sources.

"Further gains in operations," said the Review, "are apparently assured, though a setback in scrap has introduced a note of caution. Following the declines at Chicago last week scrap prices in most market centers have lost much of their buoyancy."

Scrap Trade Bullish

"The current hesitancy of old material prices, though possibly attributable in part to uncertainty as to the outcome of the gold clause case, is generally regarded as a temporary reaction from the excessive bullishness on the part of the scrap trade."

"Certainly there are no evidences of a relaxation in the demand for steel from the automotive industry. Mill deliveries on cold-finished sheets used for motor car bodies, have been extended to five or six weeks.

"Steel output is up four points to 36 per cent at Pittsburgh, two points to 59 per cent at Chicago, six points to 35 per cent in the Philadelphia district, three points to 63 per cent in the valleys and five points to 95 per cent in the Wheeling area."

$70,952 for County In First Share Of Auto License Money

Columbiana county received $70,952 from the first general distribution of 1935 auto license money, official figures submitted by Registrar Frank West of the Motor Vehicles bureau to State Highway Director John Jaster Jr. show.

Approximately six and one-half millions of dollars were distributed to Ohio counties in this first general distribution which exceeded the initial disbursement of 1934 by almost one million dollars.

Seventy-two percent of license fees collected in the county, and also the statutory five percent equalization fund of $5,000 were returned to the county.

Following is the amount received by the various districts of registration in Columbiana County:

"Imitation of Life", Fine Film, Here Friday; Walter Connolly Is Starred In Mystery Here Tonight

ONE of the most discussed films of the season is the State's offering for Friday and Saturday. It is "Imitation of Life", the film of Fannie Hurst's dramatic novel. There is a superb cast headed by Claudette Colbert, Warren William, Rochelle Hudson, Ned Sparks, Henry Armetta, Baby Jane, Alan Hale and Louise Beavers, who plays the colored mother with such effectiveness that her performance has been classed as one of the finest the screen has given.

Qualities of Success

Some notion of the scale on which this film has been produced can be gained from the fact that one setting cost $10,000. It is not an elaborate scene the cost came merely to make it authentic. It is difficult to know what to base its popularity on—the scenery, the direction by John M. Stahl, the story considered the finest ever written by Miss Hurst who saved the screen "Back Street", or the cast which has been picked as one of the year's best.

Claudette Colbert as "Rea Pullman" steps from her triumph of "Cleopatra" to this role and makes it one of the outstanding of her career. As the young woman struggling to earn a living in Atlantic City and at the same time keep up a home for her three-year-old daughter, (Baby Jane), Miss Colbert is well cast. A colored mammy, Delilah (Miss Beavers) comes to the house seeking work and is delighted to take over Ben's domestic problems in return for a home for herself and her child Peola.

The two women, so different and yet so alike, decide to establish a restaurant and the enterprise succeeds. The two children are close friends until, as they grow older, Jessie finds out that Peola, who is almost white, is actually Negro and taunts her with the fact. As she grows older, Peola is filled with bitter hatred for her race.

Thus the story tells of these four women, mothers and their daughters, each of a different race and of the troubles and sorrows they have to make an existence.

Mystery Tonight

TONIGHT the State shows an entertaining and thrilling film entitled, "Father Brown, Detective," starring Walter Connolly and featuring Paul Lukas and Gertrude Michael. It is a mystery tale telling of the international crook who comes to England to steal a valuable string of pearls, succeeds in outwitting Scotland Yard, and meets his downfall at the hands of quiet, lovable Father Brown.

Sweeney Requests Another Judgeship

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Estab-lishment of another federal judgeship for the northern district of Ohio was asked by Representative Martin L. Sweeney (D., Ohio) in a resolution introduced in the house.

At present the district has two judges who sit at Cleveland, Toledo, Akron and Youngstown. Sweeney said there was too much work for two judges and that both attorneys and members of the bench had urged the appointment of a third judge.

so chilly at Miami, Fla., that the flight scheduled between Barney Ross, of Chicago and his California challenger, Frankie Klick, had to be put off until next Monday night. Parts of Louisiana, Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee also were snow-laden. Weather accidents caused two deaths in Kentucky. Temperatures that sagged as low as an unofficial 55 below zero at Frederick, Wis., brought suffering and death to the midwest. Four weather deaths were attributed to the weather in Minnesota, and were added to the total of more than 70 who perished earlier in the week in storms that swept various sections of the country. Oklahoma had a dozen deaths for the entire cold snap. It was 8 below zero in Chicago, with a further drop forecast before the moderation begins.

AGED RED CROSS DIRECTOR DEAD

John Barton Payne, Aged 80, Dies As Followers Fight Flood

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Just as his followers were coping with another flood, Judge John Barton Payne, head of the American Red Cross, died early today.

While Red Cross workers speeded relief to victims of over-flowing streams in Tennessee and Mississippi, the 80-year-old chairman of the organization succumbed to pneumonia in George Washington hospital.

While still undergoing treatment for influenza, he was operated on for appendicitis last Saturday and shortly thereafter pneumonia developed.

A former cabinet member who had served without remuneration as chairman of the Red Cross for the last 14 years, Judge Payne directed some of the largest relief operations of all times.

He told interviewers that his salary was the highest in the world — "personal satisfaction." Nineteen foreign countries decorated him for his work.

Judge Payne entered upon perhaps the hardest work of his career at a time when most men already have retired. He was 65 when he became chairman of the Red Cross at the request of President Harding in 1921.

At that time he already had achieved a wide reputation as a jurist and public official. Born at Pruntytown, Virginia, Payne began his career as a store clerk when 15 years of age at a salary of $50 annually. Studying law at night, he soon was admitted to the bar and practiced in Virginia and Chicago. In the latter city he became judge of the superior court in 1895.

A young line of offices which he held in the government culminated in the secretaryship of the interior under President Wilson, to which he was appointed in 1920. He also served as chairman of the shipping board and director-general of railroads under the war president.

COUNTERFEITERS ACTIVE IN U.S.

Head of Secret Service Tells Congress Conditions Are Bad

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—A wave of counterfeiting sweeping the country has led W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service, to declare that "conditions are about as bad as we have ever known them to be."

He told members of the house considering the treasury appropriations bill that the greatest rise in counterfeiting has been in the manufacture of coins. His testimony was disclosed in a report made public yesterday.

"Recently," he said, "we have been troubled with coins made of all silver—some of it low grade, but then, again, a percentage of it made from silver equal to or really finer than that manufactured by the government."

Many Bogus Nickels

Two plants, captured in Massachusetts and Chicago, he said, stamped out 50 cent pieces and quarters that virtually defied detection by shopkeepers.

An excellent reproduction of the nickel is giving particular trouble in New York, where the government gets sacks from subway railroad officials and banks.

As for currency, Moran asserted, "I am ashamed to say that the people of this country will take anything that remotely resembles a piece of paper currency."

"We have counterfeiters of $5 and $10 notes coming into us—and I have seen advertising dodgers that displayed better workmanship."

His statements came as the senate and house judiciary committees considered four bills submitted by Attorney General Homer Cummings to speed up criminal prosecutions.

Washington, D. C., mothers are denouncing Juvenile Court Judge Fay Bentley (inset) for sentencing Billy Fanning (left) and Arthur Penn, both 15 to 6-year terms in prison after giving them only two-minute hearing. IMPOSSIBLE TO ITEMIZE FUNDS threatened today as administration leaders strove to get the $4,800,000,000 relief program through the house before midnight.

A cry of "scab wages" came from Rep. Connery (D., Mass.), chairman of the house labor committee, as he attacked a proposal to pay an average of $30 a month. He served notice he would offer an amendment to force the payment of wages prevailing in various localities.

In administration quarters, the plans were defended as aiming at "security" pay which would provide a living for the destitute. President Roosevelt had said the pay should be higher than the dole but not large enough to discourage workers from taking private employment.

After winning committee assent to amendments curbing powers which the dole-to-jobs measure confers on President Roosevelt, Democratic insurgents said they would fight for further curtailment before the bill is passed along to the senate.

Many Amendments

Speaker Byrns and other administration leaders were confident the measure would go through quickly, giving the President the $4,800,000,000 to spend at his discretion.

Among amendments to which the house appropriations committee agreed at the behest of insurgents was one generally regarded as aimed at Secretary Ickes, public works administrator. This amendment would delete the clause giving the President power to prolong any agency until June 30, 1937. PWA expires next June 16.

This amendment had to be acted upon by the house today, as did others. They included proposals to make all types of projects eligible for work relief; to restrict the President's power to abolish or consolidate all agencies by writing in the words "emergency agencies;" and to delete a two-year prison penalty for violations of regulations laid down by the President. In the face of attacks from some Democrats and Republicans, administration leaders defended the relief measure, calling it a far-reaching plan to end the dole. Chairman Buchanan of the appropriations committee called it vital to recovery.

Clean Out Kidney Poisons

Wash Out Your 15 Miles Of Kidney Tubes

If kidneys don't pass 3 pints a day that contain nearly 4 pounds of waste matter, the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters become clogged with poisons, waste products and the danger of acid poisoning is greatly increased. Blood poisons are difficult to remove, which often smart and burn like scalding water and cause discomfort. This acid condition, brought about by poor kidney functions is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, itching at night, humors, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness. If these tubes and filters become clogged with poisons, it may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't run any risk. Make sure your kidneys empty 3 pints a day. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Treatment of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Bilburn Co.

Bits of News From The World Of Athletics

EDITOR'S NOTE—So much has been associated with the operation of the famous Pitt stadium, particularly as to the financial set-up and high-pressure football methods employed, that the Associated Press asked University of Pittsburgh athletic authorities to clarify the picture. Herewith is the response.

By ALAN GOULD.
Associated Press Sports Editor.
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Over a period of hectic athletic years it has been the habit in collegiate circles to classify the Pitt stadium either as a financial "white elephant" or simply a monumental reminder of the "golden era" of American football.

On the word of the man who should know most about it, W. Don Harrison, director of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh, it is neither. But he reveals that $108,000 is needed annually to pay the interest on the stadium bonds and that the scope of the university athletic program is consequently limited.

"In the first place," Harrison explains, "the Pitt stadium is an integral part of the educational facilities of the University of Pittsburgh. Not only that, but it is the support of all the undergraduate athletic training, a program involving the physical well-being of hundreds aside from the varsity football squad.

Just an Illusion
"The stadium is not controlled by banks—an illusion which grew out of the supposition that it was too much for us to handle. The fact is that the bonds are held by 1,647 individuals, estates, corporations and banks. Thirty-two banks in the Pittsburgh district hold only $280,000 of the total of $1,810,000. The largest single bank holding is $50,000. Only four banks of the 32 hold in excess of $10,000 each.

"The rest are in the hands of the people. The bonds are one of the best investments in the Pittsburgh district. They have survived the panic without default of the 6 per cent interest. The stadium has never been re-financed to obtain a lower interest charge, the university trustees considering that the obligation to maintain the rate is a moral one."

Explains Broadcast Ban
It is because of this obligation, Harrison points out, that he and the athletic council have declined to permit the broadcasting of football games.

"We cannot give our football games away over the air," he says. "We naturally need and want the biggest crowds possible. Broadcasts would cut attendance, particularly in bad weather. Anything we do to reduce our revenue would be a penalty on the students.

"There is absolutely nothing to hide about our stadium. We are proud of it and what it has done for Pitt and Pittsburgh, especially during the depression."

Yankee Player
Wouldn't Mind
Removing Ruth

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The secret prayer of young George Selkirk, most promising of the Yankees' youthful outfield crop, is that George Herman Ruth sticks to his determination to remove himself from the outfit into some managerial berth elsewhere.

Only one thing has Selkirk against the Babe, and it's all in fun, which makes it worse. Selkirk is something more than extremely selfish, and the Babe not only knows it but takes every possible advantage of it.

On the fact of it, that sounds unimportant. But Yankee experts credit Ruth with unwittingly chasing Selkirk out of the American league in 1933 with schoolboy tricks that had the young outfielder jittery.

"They say, too, that last season, when George came up from Newark to replace the battered old Earle Combs in center field, he'd have been even better than the 300 hitter, classy fielder and smart runner he turned out to be, if the Babe had let him alone.

"Why don't you belt the big guy once and for all?" asked a teammate. "That'd stop him."

Selkirk, a powerhouse of an athlete, with a well nigh perfect record in free-for-alls, stared.

"What?" he gasped. "Hit the Babe?"

Career or no career, that wasn't being done as far as Selkirk was concerned.

BIG RALPH METCALFE, dusky sprinter who at present rates the "Fastest Human" accolade, is due to return to action at the indoor boards. The important track meets of the indoor season next month will have Metcalfe as one of the competing stars, and eastern track fans will see the dark figure of the tall Negro flashing past them as of yore.

The erstwhile Marquette flyer was graduated from college, and there is always the shadow of doubt over the continued greatness of athletes when they first leave the rigorous training of their college days. However, the ebony Hercules is remaining under the care of Con Jennings, Marquette trainer, as he will start a law course at the university in February.

Oddly enough, Metcalfe's chief rivals in this country are all Negroes. Jesse Owens, Ohio State's fleet shadow, was No. 2 dash man to the dusky sprint king last year, and figures to press Metcalfe very closely in 1935. Ben Johnson, Columbia sophomore, and Eustace Peacock, Temple flash, are two more colored stars who may give Metcalfe some competition over the shorter sprints indoors.

Big Ralph expects to retain his speed laurels this year, but that is not his main objective. He is really looking forward to the 1936 Olympiad, still hoping to gain the measure of Olympic glory which he thinks should have been his in 1932, when Eddie Nolan nosed him out in two heartbreaking finishes. Toan won't be around in 1936, so it will be Metcalfe's golden opportunity.

Much Is Expected
of Coach Stahl's
Baseball Team

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24.—Coach Floyd Stahl, Ohio State's baseball mentor, expects big things from his Buckeye ball tossers this spring.

After watching his batterymen work out for a couple of weeks in the gymnasium, Stahl booked three more games this week, boosting the schedule to 19 contests.

And the Buckeye mentor is planning to emulate the big leagues in a couple of ways when the diamond season rolls around. He will take a squad of 18 players on a southern training trip early in the spring, spending a week in March at the University of Kentucky. The 18 men will be divided into two teams, playing against each other to get ready for the collegiate fireworks.

Night Game at Toledo
Like the National League, Stahl will find out what night baseball is all about this season, having booked a nocturnal tilt with the University of Toledo, for May 2. The game will probably be staged at Swayne field, home park of the Toledo Mud Hens of the American association.

The complete Ohio State baseball schedule:
April 6—At Ohio University.
April 12—At Notre Dame.
April 13—At Illinois.
April 19—At Michigan here.

Salem Cagers Busy This Week

MASSILLON, FOE
FOR SATURDAY,

Brownmen Face E. Palestine Here On Friday Night

By RAY L. DEAN,
News Sports Editor

Coach Herb Brown has been polishing up dull spots on his Quaker basketball team this week in preparation for the dual engagements with East Palestine and Massillon Washington High on Friday and Saturday nights.

Defeated in their last two games, the only two losses this season, however, the Quakers are practicing hard in anticipation of taking the winning honors this weekend.

The Salemites took it on the chin last week at Alliance when the Aviators shaded them by one point in an unexpected upset, 21-20. The Saturday previous the Quakers bowed to the strong Dover flippers, 24-22, in a hard-fought battle. The defeat, however, came only after the wearied Salem basketballers had turned back East Liverpool, 28 to 22, the night before in an exciting overtime period.

Point for Massillon
The Brownmen should have little difficulty in winning over Palestine's brown and white here Friday on the local high school floor. A victory will give the Quakers four straight over Columbiana county foes to set them in the lead for county laurels.

At Massillon the Washington High Tigers will meet the Quaker cagers with bared fangs. Ordinarily Salem would mean just another ball game to Massillon in the point of interest, but inasmuch as the Quakers stand between the Tigers and the Northeastern Ohio Big Six league championship, the event becomes an all-important contest.

Local fans will recall how last season the Salem basket hunters trimmed the Tigers here to the tune of 24 to 11.

Ernie Nevers Hurt

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Ernie Nevers, Stanford assistant football coach and former All-American fullback for the Indians, and his wife, were injured yesterday in a head-on collision on the Bayshore highway a few miles south of this city. Nevers was cut and bruised. His wife suffered a possible shoulder fracture.

Bucks On Road

Ohio State university's basketball team will take to the road this weekend, playing Northwestern Saturday night at Evanston and the University of Chicago Monday evening. The next home game will be Jan. 31 when the Bucks tackle Notre Dame on the Coliseum floor.

Duck Shooting

U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey Investigate Waterfowl Population

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Whether hunters of the United States will be permitted to shoot ducks this year depends on the outcome of an investigation of waterfowl population being conducted by the United States Bureau of Biological Survey.

After three days of discussion, the 21st American Game conference closed its annual meeting yesterday after passing a resolution leaving the answer to the question up to the federal bureau headed by J. N. (Ding) Darling, former newspaper cartoonist.

Reject Proposal
The conference first rejected a proposal by the National Association of Audubon societies for a one-year ban on duck shooting, beginning in Sept., 1935.

Two other resolutions pertaining to migratory birds were adopted. One asked for the appointment of a committee representative of the United States and Canada to formulate a unified program for the taking of water fowl in the United States and Canada in the future. The other sought a federal appropriation to enable the biological bureau to provide enforcement of all laws and regulations.

After an appeal by Darling for a national game policy, the conference also adopted a resolution calling on President Roosevelt to place "all renewable resources" of the country under the control of a single governmental agency.

Aldo Leopold, professor of game management at the University of Wisconsin, was elected chairman for 1935-36, in succeeding Hoyes Lloyd, supervisor of wild life protection in Canada.

Four players are pressing Arthur Wahl of Sebring McKinley for the individual scoring leadership of the Tri-county High School Basketball league.

Wahl scored but four points against Hubbard last week and lost ground. He now leads his teammate Alex Burns and James Peters of Louisville by only eight points. Wahl has scored 72.

Studebakers To Win Tilt, 39 to 31

Although Studebaker basketballers lost a close one to the St. Stanislaus quintet of Youngstown Wednesday night in the Youngstown armory, 39-31.

McQuilken's six buckets and a foul shot for 13 points was not quite as good as the 16 points which Minchart flipped for Youngstown on eight field goals. Avery placed 10 points for the winners.

Today's Pattern

A CUNNING PLAY FROCK FOR VERY YOUNG LADIES
Pattern 2037

If you believe that young sister here is exhibiting her dolly, think again! What she's really trying to show off is that adorable frock with its nice bloomers made to match. She's a bit of a clothes-conscious young thing and she knows that her demure color is just about right for little girl flattery. And she's also very much pleased with the buttons that strut so prettily up the bodice closing because they're easily reached to fasten and unfasten. Those perky little inverted pleats, back and front, give her plenty of room for romping about! Her frock is of ray plaid gingham—but any attractive cotton fabric would look just as pretty in this cunning design.

Pattern 2037 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 8 takes 2½ yards 36 inch fabric and ¼ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Plan your spring wardrobe and let the new spring edition of the Anne Adams fashion magazine help you. It's just out! Contains page up-to-the-minute and chic. Resists for children and grown-ups, for every occasion. Get it now! Price of book 15 cents but when ordered with an Anne Adams pattern it is only 10 cents; 25 cents for both.

RACING NOTES

LATONIA, Ky., Jan. 24.—Pork Lutton, chairman of the Kentucky State Racing commission, made known today that the Latonia Jockey club will hold a 31-day spring meeting this year, from May 25 to July 6, inclusive.

The commission, he said, will meet here Saturday to ratify the dates.

Latonia's meeting will open a week after the close of the nine-day meeting at Louisville, running from April 27 to May 18, with the Kentucky Derby on May 4. Lexington has been granted a set. That meeting, however, is expected to precede that at Louisville.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24.—Ohio received $136,269.47 from legal racing in 1934, the annual report of the Ohio State Racing Commission filed today with Gov. Martin L. Davey showed. The commission collected $122,984.82 from pari-mutuel wagering and $13,275.65 from licenses, registration fees and other earnings.

The largest pari-mutuel tax was collected from the Cincinnati Jockey Club, Inc., operator of the Coney Island track. It paid $45,332.80.

Swim Into Action

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24.—Idle since the holidays, the Ohio State university swimming team will get back into action Saturday afternoon when it engages the University of Cincinnati natators at the Queen City pool.

FAYETTE, Ala. — J. Thomas Heflin, former U. S. senator, urges changes in the Alabama election laws to provide voters with a carbon copy of their ballots. The copies would be used in election contests to prove or disprove fraud.

Investigation Into Akron Dairy, Milk Industry Started

AKRON, Jan. 24.—Investigation of the dairy and milk distribution industry in the Akron area has been launched by a committee of city council.

All angles of this $4,000,000 enterprise will be inquired into under the authority of a resolution council had unanimously endorsed.

Cooperation of the Milk Producers' association of Summit county and vicinity and the Independent Milk Producers' association was pledged by officials of those organizations.

Council asked that engineers and auditors of the Ohio Milk commission be brought into the inquiry both as witnesses and to assist in conducting the investigation.

The council action came as union employees of distributors and dairymen were negotiating wage schedules, following a four-day tie-up which shut off Akron consumers.

Quartet Will Conduct Revival At Church

The Cross brothers, better known as the Ambassador quartet, of Greensboro, N. C., will conduct revival meetings at the East Goshen Friends church, beginning next at 7:30, except Saturday, and the Monday evening and continuing public is invited. Rev. Hurley Cross, a member of the quartet, will be the evangelist.

DO YOU NEED PEP?

MANY folks have thin, pale blood—they're weak, feel tired, lousy and dull. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery increases the appetite, eliminates poisons from the intestines, stimulates the digestion, makes the blood redder. Charley Sergeant of 30 Irving St., Battle Creek, Mich., said: "When I was growing, mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to improve my appetite. I had become thin, and felt tired out. I had taken only one bottle when I was eating better, put on weight, and felt stronger in every way. From my experience I know the Discovery is a good tonic to build anyone up—youth or old. New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00."

Ohio Liquor Agents Accuse Wrong Ones

LISBON, Jan. 24.—As a result of "errors" in complaints filed in the office of Clerk of Courts T. Vaughn Yates by agents of the State Liquor Control department, Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lafferty went before Judge W. F. Lones and had two such complaints nulled. The state liquor agents, it had been learned, filed informations against wrong parties.

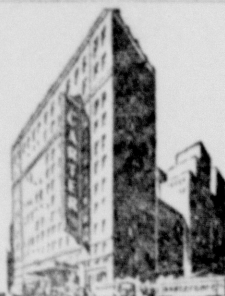

A charge of selling without a permit had been filed by the department representatives against two men. When the cases were ready to be heard by the court, and a jury ready to be called, the court was informed by Mr. Lafferty that information had been filed against innocent individuals.

The "error" cost the county at least $45, it has been estimated, as jury fees and mileage were paid each juror reporting.

POLLY AND HER PALS—

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

SYNOPSIS

Tired of the amusements and restrictions of civilization, Mark Talbot books passage on the S.S. "Orient" hoping to find the adventure he craves in travel. His brother, John, pleads in vain with him to remain home and settle down. At the dock, Mark's attention is drawn to an attractive girl who stares at him in a hostile way. Next day, Mark goes from deck to deck in search of her. He finds the girl in the steerage, the same expression of helpless rebellion against someone or someone on her face. Mark learns from the captain that her name is Vanya Prokova and that she is being deported from San Francisco to Honolulu. Mark tries to converse with her but she requests him to leave her alone.

CHAPTER IV

By late afternoon the waves were racing down on the ship like gray-green mountains, and the decks were practically deserted. Mark sat at his table alone for dinner; he noted with vicious satisfaction that neither the lyrical Professor nor the talkative blonde miss and her mother appeared. He ate a heartier meal for their absence.

"Wonder how Vanya's holding up," he thought. "I don't envy her cooped up in that stuffy hold."

After dinner he descended to the steerage, merely, he told himself, to satisfy his curiosity. A bare handful of Chinese chattered in their curious language, seated along the wall. Vanya was nowhere to be seen.

He noticed a China woman with a young baby, the same one who had sat next to Vanya on his first visit to the steerage.

"Where is the white lady?" he asked.

No answer. The stolid face stared at him unwinkingly. Mark grinned and drew a silver half-dollar from his pocket.

"Where is the white lady?" he repeated.

A bony hand reached for the coin. "No feel good, inside," replied the woman, gesturing toward the cell-like row of rooms whose doors banked the inner wall of the steerage.

"Well! That's a satisfaction!" grinned Mark to himself, as he returned to his own stateroom. "My three shipboard acquaintances, a hundred per cent under the weather."

Nevertheless, the memory of Vanya's pallid, rebellious features was anything but a satisfaction to him. In spite of himself, he felt sorry for her. He rang for the steward.

"After the way she acted, too!" he chided himself.

"What's the thing to do for mal de mer, Steward?" he asked as that official responded to his ring.

The steward looked at Mark sprawled easily in his chair, puffing a cigarette.

"Why, sir, generally we serve black coffee or orange juice. But, sir, if I may say so, you don't look—"

"Not for me," said Mark, smiling. "Take some down to Miss Vanya—What was her name?"

"Miss Vanya Prokova in the steerage, with my compliments."

The steward's face remained impassive. He was no less impassive when he returned ten minutes later with a tray holding a pot of coffee and a beaker of orange juice.

"I beg your pardon, sir, but the lady returns the order without her compliments."

Mark surveyed the tray after the steward's departure.

"That's the last straw!" he muttered. "To the Devil with her!"

Honolulu

By mid-morning Oahu was visible as a gray point on the horizon, and the once world-famous leper island of Molokai appeared beside it. Right between the two steamed the Orient, rounding Oahu toward the Honolulu side of the island.

Landing day! Mark watched the great ocean heaving in long swells, last reminder of yesterday's blow; but the sickening rolling and pitching of the ship had diminished to a degree endurable by most of the passengers.

The port rail was lined with passengers staring at Molokai, at the little white cottages of the unfortunate who made up, save for a few nurses and doctors, the island's entire population.

Mark gazed with the rest, feeling a distinct pity for the afflicted ones bound to so narrow a life. Spring Brook had seemed unbearable to him; what must be the lot of those forced to spend their entire lives in the confines of a tiny Pacific island?

By an hour after mid-day, the great liner was entering Honolulu's harbor. The decks were thronged; the Hawaiian metropolis was the destination of many of Mark's fellow passengers, and practically all of the rest were going ashore. Mark himself was leaving the vessel there; from that point, he had decided, the infinitely varied world of the South Seas lay before him, or at will, the equally polyglot world of Asia and the Far East.

Mark went down to his room to finish his last minute packing. He paratively little to do. However, when he returned to the deck, the Orient had already docked, and the majority of those who were going ashore had departed.

Mark gazed at Honolulu, outpost of America. He saw a thoroughly modern city; trucks rumbled along the water-front, street cars clanged in the distance, and piles of coal and hides, bags of coffee and sugar, cases of pineapple, lay piled in orderly rows along the docks. For an outward appearance, save for the exotic odors, and the curious trees that lined the more distant thoroughfares, he might never have left San Francisco. True, the dock laborers were mostly Chinese, but even that would be scarcely a novelty on the West Coast of the United States.

He tipped the ship employees still lined before the gang plank to bid farewell to their late passengers, and descended to the dock. A brisk Chinese youth appropriated his hand luggage, and he moved down the wooden way.

Halfway along a Chinese woman was talking to a man of the same race. Mark noticed a baby in her arms, and recognized his acquaintance of the steerage.

"Hello!" he said. "I thought you were bound for Canton."

"The image of Vanya, whom he had deliberately put out of his mind, rose again at the sight of the woman."

"I got cousin here," she grinned. "I go see. Boat wait here one day."

Mark paused beside her. "What happened to the white lady?" he asked.

"She get off boat," said Mark, wondering why he bothered to ask about Vanya at all.

The Chinese woman leaned toward him. "She dance," she said in confidential tones.

"Dance? What do you mean?" "She dance for money."

"Oh," said Mark. "You mean she's a professional dancer?"

He frowned. Somehow the information didn't please him; girls who dance for money in the Polynesian islands are, as a general rule, hardly models of propriety.

"How do you know?" he queried. "I ask she tell."

"Where does she dance?" "No tell."

"In Honolulu?" "She no tell."

"Well," said Mark, "I don't suppose it makes much difference anyway. It's none of my business. But thanks."

He turned away when the woman halted him with a plaintive cry.

"Worth money?" "What's worth money?" asked Mark impatiently.

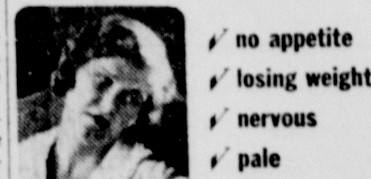

"I tell—worth money?" "Oh! A light dawned on him. "No, it's not worth a red cent to me, you heathen, but here's for your interest, anyway!"

He flashed another half-dollar from his pocket, and tossed it to the woman with a partly-amused, partly-exasperated chuckle. Then he moved on toward the city, with his brisk little attendant trotting behind.

"I'll find out what sort of transportation one can get to the remoter spots in the South Seas," he ruminated. "After all, you can't judge by Hawaii, in the first place it's north of the equator, and therefore not really a chain of South Sea islands at all. And in the second place, it's an American territory, and Honolulu's an American city. That isn't what I'm looking for on this trip."

He registered at his hotel, after a ride in a perfectly conventional taxicab, and wandered out to look the town over. Somehow, he wasn't pleased; the city was a bustling, was traveling light, and found com-
